acce ann says acces, all of which must be mean body. They are not permitted to select eighty acres of rich prairie, forty of woodland and forty more of coal, stone, mineral, or water power, unless all these happen to be grouped together on one quarter section. Numerically they are unable to claim more than a small fraction of the lands embraced in any other server, and remainfully they are maspeculators or their skillful agent see picking out all the choice farming or wooded tracts not actually occupied, all the choice farming or religible town sites, all the water powers, all the shone quarries, all the cool and mineral lands and all the intermediate sections or fractions between different settlements which are likely to advance rapidly in value with the improvements put upon the ground by the ladustrious pre-emptor. Thus the great bulk of the wealth of the new survey, including all the secondary sources of the country would not frow, including all the secondary sources of the country would not frow print provant between characteristics and discretifications are results. Cincinnati would, in that case, be compelled to contend spints great odds. The bnanes which she requires would not frow prints of the country all except the anterilinvian releavements. rey, including all the secondary sources of scopperity—all except the antediluvian reports of corn growing and castle herding—are locked up in the possession of capitalists, a thousand miles distant, who have no interest in the Territory, except to sell out ultimately at a large profit. When the proclamation issues from Washington declaring the lands ready for sale, the speculator knows precisely what tructs are not occapied and what sections are valuable. He knows, too, whether any occupant of a valuable trach has failed in some trifling particular to comply with the pre-emption laws. He knows who of the pre-emptions is able and who is not, to pay the mon y demanded by the Land Office. He uses all this knowledge on the hundred-per-cent principle, measuring his profits by the limit of the law and the needs of his customers. The capital at the command of an tomers. Of course every cent ade by the distant speculator is abstracted Nor is it merely in the sudden withdrawal eer, that the present system works fatally to the prosperity of the community. Population is diffused over large areas, making it difficult to combine the force and capital for bailding schools and supporting religious institutions: while social privileges are of

tre. This is not the mission of our western railway.

Nor does this complete our survey of the advanced sondition of Cincinnst and her railreads. Directly south of us, and midway between us and the Southern sabohard there stretches a great trunk railway reaching—from the Northern cities to the Missinspip at Mamphis, and evosaing every route which has been or can be devised from the South to the Western valley, and this historrapis trade and travel both, which naturally belongs to Cincinnst, and carries it partly through Tenseace and Virginia towards Philadelphia and New York, and partly to the Northwest by Memphis and St. Jonis, or Nashville and Louisrille. In this manner Cincinnsti, rec another year is over, will be left commar-

As to the "possible," the Gazette suggests experienced operator at the first land-sale in As to the "possible," the Gazette suggests the opening of a great through line of railway from Chicago to Charlesten, making Cincinnati the central depot of the router Nearly the entire line is already in operation, and the opening of a few more links will complete it. It may be doubted whether the remedy proposed will prevent the evils so clearly and forcibly stated by the editor of the Gazette. The centre of wealth, population and power must soon be west of Cincinnati. There is still some discussion as to whether Sh. Louis or Chicago will win the neight but if the price. In this company long rea new district, amounts often to millions wardly a dollar of which fails to double, Chicago will win the prize; but it can which elects two Aldermen; and the division 'as accessly unfair that, while a voting population of 5,400 elects fourteen Republican Aldermen in seven wards, a population of 5,800, seattered through the classic localities known as "Kansas." "Kigubbin" and "Squalidor," netures sixteen live and hungry "Dimmicrats" to the Council. By some mistake the old 5th and 9th wards are left almost undisturbed, and under the new names of 17th and 15th are not included in the above account. This inequality of representation is the radical, fundamental error in the contrivance. That populous part of the city south of the main branch of the river and north of Medison street—an area that includes nearly all the large hotels and heavy business houses, and the most valuable property, real and personal, and which has at least 1600 voters—in put on an equality with Bridgeport-the campage place of a few cattle yards and slaughter-houses. That may be Popular Sovereignty; probably is as Dyer & Co. understands it, because the same irregularity, though in a less degrees, may be found in all the Republican when compare I with the Democratic wards.

An axamination of the amendments in detail, and a statement of the objections which his against each, would be the work of a tortulght. It is aufficient to say that the evident design of all is to erect the city of Chicago into a close corporation of which the file leasters of the Democratic party would become the managers, with power to perpetuate their rule, indefinitely, by well-known Democratic methods. It carrying out this fondamental intention, the plotters have exerted all their ingenuity without scruple or remorses. They propose,

I. To virtually disfranchise a large part of the Republican population, upon the theory that two Republicans count as much as one Hiberaian.

Hibernian.

II. To rob the Mayor of all power in our city affairs, reducing him to the political status of a wooden man,

III. To divest the Common Council the immediate representatives of the people—of nearly all the authority which that body now wields, and to transfer it to other and irresponsible hands.

IV. To create a Board of Public Works, by act of the Council, and endow it with extraor-dinary authority. To this Board the Council is secondary and subordinate; to it all petitions dinary authority. To this Board the Conneil is secondary and subordinate; to it all petitions for city improvements must be addressed; and upon its recommendation only can the Council act, while the Board in many if not all matters within its province, may proceed independently of the Council, and kery and collect assessments without appeal. This Board is absolute in the exercise of the power with which it is citched; and as it is entrusted with all the important interests now managed by the Sewerage Commissioners, Water Commissioners, and, in part, with the present duties of the Mayor, Comptroller and Council the latitude allowed it for mischief corresponds exactly with the inclination for mischief in which its members may indulgs. V. To desirey the control of the Mayor and Council over the municipal police; to put all police matters into the hands of three Commissioners, who are primarily elected to the Council, and are created, on express terms, a body politic. These may appoint any number of men to serve them without consent of the Council; and to their patrolmen is given jurisdiction to serve them without consent of the Council; and to their patrol-men is given fursidiction which settends over the whole State! The Board acts independently of sufficient limitations and restraints; it is irresponsible to any other branch of the city government; and last of all it has the power to draw on the Treasury for its expenditures, necessary or unnecessary, without the concurrence of any other authority whatever!

paganda have so far lost their first effects that men can now look with estimates upon the prospect before them, and can choose deliberately the methods by which they will repel the aggressions that are boldly avowed. It is found that positions have been assumed by extremely radies! thinkers, that cannot be maintained; and that the first step toward a victory which will wrest power from the enemies of Freedom, is that winch consolidates the party on a constitutional and tenable belief. Hence, the action of the representatives of the party will be marked with that discretion which is the sare presage of victory.

And it is of this carthlier Webster, let me ay—this noblest of pluin merry follows, in whose mortal bedy the great inhabiting fatellect was a guest he was often weary of—that we wanf a picture drawn by some triend who thus remembers him. One of the best models of humorous practicality in all literature, I fancy, is a letter of Webster's disked in this very house at Washington, and written to the laboring man his farm-tenant at Marshield. Judge Warren, of Boston, has possession of it, with other specimens of the great slateman's velin of grave drollery and downrightness—(a vein of which all mention is strangely omitted in the blographies of him—and the Judge, by the way, whom Webster loved so well as the nucleus of the wit and good fellowship of Boston, would be the very man to give us the other picture of his friend—the Marshield farmer, with the 'god-like' shut up in the unseen brain-chamber where he icdged

In conversation with a gentleman whom we met, as to the decay of families with great mames, he mentioned a neighbor of his by the way of ilustration; and, on my expressing a curiosity to see so marked an instance of oblivous lite he kindly offered while my companions were called elsewhere, to be my guide as well as to furnish an extense for a visit of course in describing an incident of this kind, I can neither give place nor name so I while merely designate the object of our curiosity as Mr. X., and my obliging guide as Mr. A. Furnishing ourselves with sileta as a defence against the savage dogs that were known to guard the premises we left the road and took our way across several rudely ienced lots, the enty access to his dwellings, being by thus climbing the rails, and striking a bee-line for the distant chimney—Of the old family criate we were thus crossing, and which consisted of a bundred acres or more, no reasonable sum would probable buy a portion. There had once been a mansion on the place, if I understood rightly, but it had long ago tumbled down and served for "kindling." There were no signs of it remaining, or none, at any rate, that our fight with a large black dog, as we neared the smoking chimney, allowed us time to observe. The door was open, and as it served also for the only window, the picture was at first rather imperfect. I could see, however, that a woman sat upon her heels in the middle of the floor, and, as my friend reached the threshold, she said, "walk in"—
